

Applying for a Donation from Howard Mutual

Howard Mutual supports a number of local charitable and volunteer organizations each year with gifts that can include money, in-kind items, and possibly volunteer help.

Donations will be considered for organizations and events whose goals provide a direct benefit to the Company, such as reducing claims, or whose goals improve the quality of life for our local community. These organizations or events will include, but not be limited to, those who focus on cultural, agricultural, environmental, health, heritage, or educational goals.

Howard Mutual, under normal circumstances, will not consider donations to: adult sporting teams, organizations, or events (however, we will consider donations to youth sports teams, organizations, or events); "for profit" organizations or events; and religious or sectarian organizations, unless they support broad-based community needs.

In-kind donation requests will be considered (e.g., pens, yardsticks, and fire extinguishers) as long as they meet the Company criteria listed above.

We ask that donation requests be submitted to us in writing, either by mail or email.
